

Nasu Heisei-no-mori Forest Forest Recreation Zone Area Map

那須平成の森

OPEN

May, August, October
9:00 - 17:00
Other months
9:00 - 16:30

CLOSED

Wednesdays
(Or the following day,
if Wednesday falls on a holiday)

Field Center

As the overall entrance of Nasu Heisei-no-mori Forest, the Field Center provides information for visitors. There is a reception counter for guided walks and nature experience & learning programs. Admission is free.

日光国立公園 那須平成の森

Nasu Heisei-no-mori Forest
Nikko National Park

Let This Forest be a Place to interact with Nature

Nasu Heisei-no-mori Forest was established in response to His Majesty the Emperor's Emeritus's desire that this rich natural area be protected and utilized as a place for the people of Japan to interact with nature. In the year marking the 20th anniversary of His Majesty the Emperor's accession to the Throne, jurisdiction over a part of Nasu Imperial Villa was transferred from the Imperial Household Agency to the Ministry of the Environment. Through a variety of environmental research projects, this area has been identified as having a great abundance in variety and quantity of flora and fauna. We will preserve this healthy forest environment and provide facilities and programs where many people can learn the significance of biodiversity and consider how best to coexistence with nature through interaction with it.

Ministry
of the Environment

Nasu Heisei-no-mori Field Center

For more information
and questions,
contact

3254 Takakuhei, Nasu-machi, Nasu-gun, Tochigi
325-0302, JAPAN
TEL (+81)0287-74-6808 FAX (+81)0287-74-6809
<https://nasuheisei-f.jp>

Play

Learn

Feel

Why not come find your own personal nature in the Nasu Heisei-no-mori forest?

The Nasu Heisei-no-mori forest was almost never entered by people until recent years due to its previously status as Nasu Imperial Villa land. Today, however, it can be enjoyed year-round from spring filled with blossoming trees to snow-covered winter. walking through the forest, you will make fun discoveries all

Who are the "interpreters"?

Interpreters serve as bridges between nature and people. They are specialists who can convey message s given off by nature at a given time and place in an easy-to-understand way. Our interpreters are waiting for your visit with abundant knowledge about the natural environment and plenty of humor as well.

When you come to the forest, why not start by joining in a 30 minute free mini-program? An interpreter will tell you about how to enjoy the natural environment here. Apply on the day in question at the Field Center.

The natural monument Japanese dormouse is also a resident of the forest.

If you want to enjoy things at your own pace, you are free to take a walk through the forest recreation zone. Why not try taking a relaxing walk through the invigorating forest at a pace that fits your level of physical strength? There are also handicap accessible paths.

Humankind also realizes that it is a part of the ecosystem.

If you want to savor nature deeply, your only option is the "Guided Walk" in which you can enjoy learning about the forest as you walk through with an interpreter. Please enjoy the rich forest in great detail. Takes about 2 hours, and requires a fee.

All living things in the forest are intricately and deeply connected.

A child's sense of wonder is nurtured through joyful

Creative experiences in nature.

Calendar of highlights in the Nasu Heisei forest

Dogtooth violets blooming
(from mid-April to early May)

● Summer birds flying in
(from early May)

Rhododendron quinquefolium blooming
(from mid-May to early June)

Ezoajisai blooming
(throughout July)

● Amanita caesarea growing
(throughout August)

● Appearance of Siebold's dragonfly
(from mid-July to early September)

Bellflowers blooming
(early October)

● Acorns falling
(late September to late October)

● Autumn colors
(from mid-October to early November)

Wind blowing from mountains
(from mid-November)

● Snowshoes workshop
(from late December to mid-March)

● Winter birds flying in
(from mid-November)

Spring

Summer

Autumn

Winter

Flower seasons vary depending on the year.

Field Center

Information on nature and other activities in Nasu Heisei-no-mori Forest can be found at the general-purpose information desk. Visitors can also make inquiries or register for guide walks here.

TEL: (+81)0287-74-6808

